

We supercharge social impact startups

We believe that technology can enable positive environmental and societal change at a pace and scale not previously available in the world.

We look for founders who share that belief and have the ambition to prove it.

Your 'tech for good' partner

Orangesoft is looking for early-stage founders whose primary mission is to provide sustainable solutions for cultural, environmental, and social issues rather than solely pursuing profits.

Education improvement

Gender equality promotion

Climate change mitigation

Public health enhancement

Poverty alleviation

Community development

Human rights protection

Ethical business practices

Unconventional challenges require unconventional solutions

Orangesoft is led by a team of five executives with a business background and hands-on experience in equity funding, startup consulting, and mentorship programs.

Our Team:

 Consulted 50+ companies	 Been in startup board roles
 Designed go-to-market strategies	 Developed business networks

Orangesoft's 'tech for good' offer

Using our 13+ years of experience in tech, our 'tech for good' offer aims to give you a head start on your GreenTech initiative.

Along with our internal experience, we tap into our business network, comprised of mentors, tech providers, technologists, angel investors, and venture capitalists, to expedite the development of your GreenTech solutions.

“Startup boost” package

1. One-day workshop

Solidify your GreenTech idea with value proposition, target audience, key metrics, and other crucial aspects.

We kick off our collaboration with a brainstorming session where we work together to develop a one-page business model.

2. High-level decomposition

Understand the product's structure, purpose, and how it aligns with your business's goals.

We break down your product idea into major components, functions, and features in a way that's easily understandable to technical and non-technical stakeholders.

3. Provisional estimation & resource plan

Identify the best-fit financial, physical, intellectual, and human resources needed for your initiative to take off.

We provide you with cost and time estimates based on the specifications of your project.

4. Concept design

Get the buy-in and support of your stakeholders, partners, investors, or clients with a well-designed, distinctive prototype.

Within one day, we refine and shape your product idea into a beautiful two-screen prototype.
